

K-AI

As an individual, especially a college student, I have realized how helpful and useful artificial intelligence is, not only to me but to society. As AI advances, it has improved our society and even become a necessity in daily lives. That's why I want to build a website called K-AI, in reference to my name Kevin. K-AI features different artificial intelligence tools for a variety of purposes that can be found on one website. The website will help users explore AI tools from education, writing, coding, image generation, video, politics, research, finance, health, sports, law, creativity, productivity, technical and data, and many more. Each page of the website has its own purpose and objective on specific AI tools, and more information about it. The website will have a modern and futuristic design to be visually appealing to users, and easy to use. My main goal of K-AI is to be a central AI Hub for users to explore all different types of artificial intelligence and tools for their needs.

Page Names

1. Home
2. AI Directory
3. Education and Research
4. Coding and Technology
5. Business and Productivity
6. Writing and Creativity
7. Help